Resist: One Girl's Fight Back Against the Nazis

Author: Tom Palmer Format: Paperback Release Date: 04/08/2022

August 2022 Book of the Month | Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8

It's 1943, Edda is 14 and living in Velp in the Netherlands under German occupation. Young as she is, she is already risking her life working for the resistance, delivering newsletters and, more dangerous still, helping US airmen stranded behind German lines. With typical economy and directness, Tom Palmer tells her story brilliantly, describing Edda's heroism plus the fear and misery experienced every day by all those trying to live their lives as war rages around them with the same eye-level detail and insight. As often in Palmer's books, this is inspired by a real person and somehow the story of this courageous young girl is even more remarkable when he reveals in the concluding pages that Edda van Heemstra grew up to be Audrey Hepburn, one of the most famous of all the Hollywood stars, though also a longtime ambassador for UNICEF. Written for dyslexia specialist Barrington Stoke, the book is accessible to all readers and for many it is likely to prove unputdownable.

Birdsong

Author: Katya Balen Format: Paperback Release Date: 01/07/2022

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 Winner of this year's Yoto Carnegie Medal, Katya Balen is a lyrical story teller who is gifted at reflecting on difficult situations and emotions and exploring how children can navigate them. In Birdsong, Annie is slowly recovering from a terrible car crash which has left her with damage to her hand that prevents her from playing her beloved flute. Without access to her natural solace of making music Annie retreats into a silent and all-consuming rage against everything that has caused this to happen, including her mother. Furiously exploring the scruffy scrubland outside her new flat Annie meets Noah who introduces her to the blackbirds' nest he is protecting. Gradually Annie begins to take an interest and the blackbirds' wonderful song reignites her love of music and enables her to express herself through it once more. Katya Balen's careful and sparing use of words and her eloquent expressions makes this a beautiful as well as a moving book to read.

Stitched-Up

Author: Steve Cole Format: Paperback Release Date: 02/06/2022

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 This is the latest in a series of books by Steve Cole which let readers see the world through the eyes of young people the same age as them but living very different lives. Hanh's family were conned into allowing her to travel to Hanoi, ostensibly for a job as a shop assistant. Instead, she's forced to work in a sweatshop making clothes for Western fashion outlets. Little more than slaves, she and other young girls work long hours in horrible, dangerous conditions, locked in at night and beaten by guards if they complain. It's a grim setting, but Cole's story emphasises Hanh's strength, character, and resilience as together the girls form a desperate plan to escape. It's tense and exciting, and readers will identify with Hanh from the very beginning. The story leaves them in no doubt either as to the real cost of that cute pair of ripped jeans and makes us all aware of our part in the terrible treatment of children like Hanh. Published by Barrington Stoke, this is accessible for all readers including those reluctant, struggling or dyslexic.

The Tide Singer

Author: Eloise Williams Format: Paperback Release Date: 03/03/2022

Reading Age 8 Interest Age 8+ Morwenna's family have owned the funeral parlour in Carregton Crow for as long as anyone can remember. It's Morwenna's job to accompany her father as he sails the coffins of the dead out to the island cemetery, and to help with burials and care for the graves. As with any place on the edge of the sea, stories and legends abound, including tales of tide singers, mysterious sea people with the power to control the waves. When a strange girl is found washed up, Morwenna cares for her, in the face of village prejudice, and as a result, a miracle happens. The sound and taste of the sea roll through this story, wild, strange and powerful, the strength of a storm matched by Morwenna's quiet kindness and compassion. An unforgettable story.

Song of the River

Author: Gill Lewis Format: Paperback Release Date: 24/02/2022

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 Gill Lewis' stories connect young readers with the countryside and wild animals as the very best nature writing does, inspiring them to discover more of the outdoors and to stand up for the environment. In Song of the River, Cari is reluctantly beginning a new life with her mother following the tragic death of her father. They have moved away from the city to a cottage next to a river where her mum opens a café. When a flood destroys their home, the resilience of the tiny water voles on the riverbank inspires Cari to see things differently, and a proposal to reintroduce beavers to the area convinces her that the future can be different. The more she finds out about the scheme, the more involved she becomes, finding new strength as well as a place in the community. The story weaves together personal loss and recovery into a story with a message for us all. Simply told, the impact will be long-lasting.

Tripwrecked! Tempest Terror

Author: Ross Montgomery Format: Paperback Release Date: 02/09/2021

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 What a super introduction to Shakespeare and his play The Tempest. The story tells of a group of school children who are on a ferry to perform the play in a festival in Italy. If you know the Tempest, you can probably guess that their ferry capsizes, and the group are shipwrecked. The drama then unfolds! Half of the actors wash up on the beach, the other half and their teacher, Mr Fortune (or not so fortunate) are missing. The characters identities are set out in the first chapter, where the reader is introduced to the confident bossy leader, the shy, but intelligent boy, the thinker, and the clown. What is clever, is that if you know the play, the characters resemble those in Shakespeare's play, but if you don't, it in no way detracts from the enjoyment of the story. The story is lively and fast paced, but still manages to include some lovely description and colour, such as 'the unspooling music like golden ribbon' heard by the children. It is also quite humorous with some lively banter between the group. For those readers who like things explained, and everything rounded up, the final chapter brings all the plots and characters together in true Shakespearean fashion. All is revealed, the poor unfortunate Caliban, why there is a desert island just off the coast of Dover, and why the group were split up! The book is of a good length for all levels of reader and printed on dyslexic friendly paper. I look forward to Hurly-Burly (Macbeth in disguise!).

The Royal Rebel

Author: Bali Rai Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/07/2021

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 Animal lover, Suffragette, favourite of Queen Victoria, lifelong campaigner – Princess Sophia Duleep Singh was a truly remarkable person and Bali Rai brings her wonderfully to life in this short, but action-packed biography. He writes it in Sophia's voice as first-person narrative and readers will absolutely feel they are there in the different moments described and will fully understand Sophia's sense of being caught halfway between two worlds – the British aristocracy and her Indian homeland. Everyone should know her story and I'd press this into the hands of all young people to inspire them with the sense that you can make a difference to the world, and to let them see through the eyes of this extraordinary woman. Published by Dyslexia specialists Barrington Stoke, this is super-readable to all.

Welcome to Trashland

Author: Steve Cole Format: Paperback Release Date: 01/07/2021

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 Steve Cole's gripping treasure hunt story is even more compelling because it is set in a real place, somewhere most of us have never heard of. Theo lives in the world's biggest e-waste dump, Agbogbloshie in Ghana. The same age as readers, he makes a living sorting through the junk that people like us throw out – mobile phones, old DVD players, Xbox machines – and salvaging scraps of metal that he sells for cash, earning just enough to pay for food but nothing like what he needs to escape. So when Emanuel turns up asking Theo for help to find his big brother's treasure, Theo is in; this could be his chance to escape Trashland. Their search is even more dangerous than Theo expects. Other people are after the hidden treasure too and Emanuel is anything but trustworthy. The story is tense and exciting, and readers will feel they are there with the boys, digging through the broken electronics, choking on the dump's noxious fumes. Things work out well for Theo in the end – it would be too agonising for the readership if they didn't – but readers will be very aware that there are many real life Theos and Emanuels still digging through the rubbish in Trashland. Particularly suitable for struggling, reluctant and dyslexic readers aged 8+

The Small Things

Author: Lisa Thompson Format: Paperback Release Date: 03/06/2021

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 Anna has friends at school, a kind teacher, she's not being bullied, yet still she feels anxious, subdued, and terribly conscious that her friends' lives are much busier than hers, a round of after school lessons, activities and clubs. The arrival in her class of new girl Ellie changes everything however. Ellie is ill and can't come to school, instead she communicates via a special robot, quickly named Ellie-bot by the class. As the two girls become friends, Anna finds herself inventing the kind of home life her friends have, scared that her normal life is too small-scale to impress Ellie. The truth emerges, of course, but Ellie is wise enough to understand that it's the small things in life that are the best. Quiet and gentle as it is, nonetheless this story packs a real punch and is delivered with the warmth, compassion and understanding that mark out Thompson's writing. Published by dyslexia specialist Barrington Stoke, it is accessible to all readers.

Arctic Star

Author: Tom Palmer Format: Paperback Release Date: 06/05/2021

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 | May 2021 Book of the Month It wasn't until 2013 that the men who served on the Arctic Convoys in the Second World War were properly honoured for their bravery. But anyone reading Tom Palmer's typically vivid and powerful short novel will understand exactly what they went through, and what kept them going. Arctic Star features three young friends, Royal Navy recruits, and follows them on the perilous journeys they make escorting merchant vessels across the Arctic as they deliver supplies to the Russians. The sea is wild and treacherous, icy cold, and of course, they are hunted through the waters by German battleships, planes and submarines. Palmer packs not just a huge story, but a huge amount of information and atmosphere into this short book, and in Frank, Joseph and Stephen, he creates three young men readers won't forget in a hurry. The climax of the story is the deadly battle between HMS Belfast and the Scharnhorst, and it will leave readers exhausted, but full of compassion and sympathy for all the men caught up in this terrifying field of war. Historical fiction doesn't get much better than this.

Keeper

Author: Alan Gibbons Format: Paperback Release Date: 06/05/2021

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 Shane Logan hits Peter's school like a hurricane. He's big, loud and doesn't like being told what to do. He plays football like he does everything: with lots of energy and very little control. Then Peter suggests that Shane goes in goal, and he turns out to be the best goalie they've ever had. Now the problem is Shane's aggressive stepdad; can Shane control his temper and keep Mick onside too? As with all Alan Gibbons's stories, this feels completely authentic, as it celebrates the boys, their approach to life and their love of football. In between the chapters are facts about famous goal keepers and the goals they saved, or didn't, and these real life stories add to the sense of football as an alternative family. Published by Barrington Stoke, this is dyslexia-friendly and accessible to the most reluctant reader.

Featherlight

Author: Peter Bunzl Format: Paperback Release Date: 01/04/2021

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 From bestselling author Peter Bunzl comes Featherlight – an irresistible tale of family, magic and bravery. An unlikely visitor brings light to the life of the lighthouse keeper's daughter, in this stunning new adventure. Inspired by the story of real heroines like Grace Darling in the Farne Islands and Ida Lewis of Rhode Island, both of whom risked their lives in daring sea rescues in the nineteenth century, Featherlight boasts a strong female protagonist, a touching story of family, and a fantastic mix of myth and history from the award-winning author of the Cogheart series.

The Dog that Saved the World (Cup)

Author: Phil Earle Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/03/2021

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 Two true stories inspire this warm, positive, uplifting story: the real-life adventure of Pickles, the dog who found the World Cup, and the amazing achievements of Fara Williams, the women's football superstar who was winning on the pitch even while she was homeless. Like Fara, Elsie is football mad, as is her dog Pickles, who narrates for us. In the story, the world cup trophy is stolen, which means Elsie will miss her chance to play in a half-time match at Wembley. That opportunity has been sustaining her through difficult times as she and her dad (and Pickles), also like Fara Williams, have lost their home and are living in a noisy, dingy hostel. Fortunately, Pickles is as good a detective as his famous namesake... Publisher Barrington Stoke specialise in books for dyslexic or reluctant readers, and there's lots of page-turning action packed into a short extent. The book is big on emotions too though, making clear just how devastating it is to lose your home, while showing how love, family and hope can get you through just about anything. It also reminds us that football – playing, watching, being a fan – is life-enhancing. A winner! Particularly suitable for struggling, reluctant or dyslexic readers aged 13+

Swan Song

Author: Gill Lewis Format: Paperback Release Date: 04/02/2021

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 Gill Lewis is contemporary children's literature's nature writer par excellence, telling moving stories of human encounters with wild animals that powerfully connect readers with the natural world. Swan Song tells the story of Dylan, expelled from his school and struggling with depression until he moves with his mother to her family home in a tiny Welsh village. In the peace and quiet of days on his grandfather's boat, Dylan begins to find himself again, but it is the discovery of an injured Whooper swan that is life-saving, and shown to be literally so. Written for dyslexia specialist Barrington Stoke, this short novel will be accessible to all readers and its message of the healing power of nature and community more important now than it's ever been. The LoveReading LitFest invited Gill Lewis to the festival to talk about Swan Song, and green reads for kids with fellow author Konnie Huq. The digitally native, all year round, online literature and books festival, with new content released every week is a free-for-all-users festival. What are you waiting for? ## Everdark

Author: Abi Elphinstone Format: Paperback Release Date: 07/01/2021

January 2021 Book of the Month Set in a magical world, this glorious tale of adventure and daring stars the most unlikely heroine because, as the narrator explains, sometimes it takes a story to show that the truly extraordinary people – the ones who defeat monsters and save kingdoms – are often the ones that nobody notices at first. If that statement doesn't make you want to snatch up the book and read it from beginning to end, then you have no heart! Smudge is indeed overlooked – she's clumsy and in her own words 'a bit useless' but somehow, she emerges as the only hope for Crackledown when the evil harpy Morg tries to steal its magic. Fortunately, Smudge is also courageous, inventive and determined – and she has an equally remarkable helper in the shape of tea-drinking, trilby-wearing talking monkey, Bartholomew. Their adventures as they sail beyond the treacherous Northswirl and journey into the heart of the Everdark forest are filled with everything that makes for the best adventures, including magic, drama, narrow escapes, shared laughter and lots of heart. Originally published for World Book Day, Everdark has been reissued in a dyslexia friendly format, which is wonderful news for children like Smudge who struggle with reading and spelling, but everyone should read it. Everdark is a standalone story but part of Abi Elphinstone's The Unmapped Chronicles series, which are also highly recommended.

Queen of King Street

Author: Tom McLaughlin Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/10/2020

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 | November 2020 Book of the Month Tom McLaughlin's new story stars a royal family, but as you've never imagined them before! When hapless Bertie, the Queen's brother, gambles away their entire estate on a game of Happy Families, the whole family are turfed out. It seems no-one is particularly sorry to see them go either, they've been stuck-up, selfish and entitled. Life in their new home in King Street, Windsor takes some getting used to, but mixing with the hoi-polloi, aka their new neighbours, teaches the former royals to be much nicer people (as well as giving them a taste for Pot Noodle). It's delightfully silly and very funny, but actually full of useful life lessons too. Published by Barrington Stoke, this is accessible to all readers including those reluctant, struggling or dyslexic.

World Burn Down

Author: Steve Cole Format: Paperback Release Date: 01/10/2020

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 This gripping story of kidnap and escape burns with outrage at damage being done to the Amazon. Carlos' mother is a member of the Special Forces Group of IBAMA, Brazil's environment agency, which suddenly makes him a target for ruthless men illegally mining in the rainforest. Taken as a hostage to force his mother to turn a blind eye, he manages to escape and survive with the help of a boy his age, whose life has already been devastated by the men's actions, even as the world burns around both of them. Powerful and absolutely gripping, this is both a terrific adventure story and a wake-up call for young readers about the urgent need to protect our world. Published by Barrington Stoke, it's accessible to all readers including those reluctant, struggling or dyslexic.

Jane Eyre A Retelling

Author: Tanya Landman Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/01/2020

A Julia Eccleshare Pick of the Month January 2020 | January 2020 Book of the Month | Interest Age Teen Reading Age 9 Award-winning author Tanya Landman captures the high drama and deep romance of Charlotte Brontë's classic novel Jane Eyre in this fresh retelling. While in the setting of the story and the overarching plot and twists that propel it she is faithful to the time and place of the original and to the feel of both, she has given Jane a boldness and independence that is both entirely in keeping with the original and refreshingly modern.

McTavish on the Move

Author: Meg Rosoff Format: Paperback Release Date: 07/11/2019

A Julia Eccleshare Pick of the Month November 2019 Full of Meg Rosoff's delightful wit and evident affection for dogs, this is a great return for McTavish the big-hearted rescue dog who is already well-known for the good care he takes of all those around him. This time it is Betty who needs help. When Pa Peachey gets a new job the whole family is upheaved. Everyone is excited about it except for Betty. Not only has she got to move house but she also to say goodbye to her old friends and go to a new school. Betty does not want to be the new girl: she is terrified. Luckily, McTavish thinks of the best possible way to turn her arrival at a new school into a triumph rather than a catastrophe.

Seven Ghosts

Author: Chris Priestley Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/10/2019

Interest Age 8+ Reading age 8 Chris Priestley is a superb teller of ghost stories and knows just how to bring the uncanny into the ordinary, or turn the homely suddenly horrifying. A tour for talented young writers round a haunted house is the backdrop for this collection of linked stories. Each of the seven ghosts we meet is a child, each of their stories is different and each is guaranteed to send shivers up the spine or have you nervously checking over your shoulder in the dark. Written for dyslexia-specialists Barrington Stoke, this will enthrall even the most reluctant or struggling reader and concludes with a fantastically chilling twist. It's the season for ghost stories, and this is required reading for fans of the genre.

Tin Boy

Author: Steve Cole Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/09/2019

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 | September 2019 Book of the Month Short and, in Barrington Stoke style, accessible to all readers, Tin Boy is a powerful and inspiring story, and one that will get children thinking about the world and their place in it. The hero Tono lives in the Indonesian province of Bangka Belitung and, though he's only a boy, goes to work to each day, swimming down to mine tin by hand from deep under sea. It's dangerous work and caught in an accident, he's lucky to survive. That luck, together with something he finds on the seabed, changes his life. It's a gripping story, that both vividly describes Tono's life and plays with the idea of superheroes in a way that will resonate with all readers. Readers who enjoy Tono's story should also look out for Kick by Mitch Johnson.

Fox Friend (4u2read)

Author: Michael Morpurgo Format: Paperback Release Date: 05/11/2018

Interest Age 7-12 Reading Age 8+ When Christine finds an abandoned fox cub she cares for it herself. But can she keep it secret from her Dad? This is a wonderfully touching and beautifully crafted story about growing up and learning about real life from one of our best-loved authors.

White Feather

Author: Catherine MacPhail, David MacPhail Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/10/2018

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 The horrors of World War One and the huge demands it made on the young men who fought in it are explored in this thought-provoking and moving ghost story. It's the end of the war but Tony and his mother have no reason to celebrate: Tony's big brother Charlie was killed in France, shot by his own side as a deserter. His mother is heartbroken, but few of their neighbours are sympathetic and indeed, Tony's old teacher presents him with a white feather. Tony can't believe Charlie would run away and when he receives a final coded letter from his brother determines to find out what really happened. Economically told, this is a powerful story that raises issues of courage and responsibility.

Virus

Author: Chris Bradford Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/10/2018

Interest Age 9+ Reading Age 8 Set in a future world in which kids risk their lives for real playing an online fantasy game, Virus is a nerve-tingling combination of science-fiction and martial arts extravaganza. Scott knows that playing Virtual Kombat will put his life in danger, but the only way to destroy the game is from the inside, and he really wants to avenge the death of his friend. In this he's helped by a group of techno-hackers, but when it comes to the crunch, his tae kwon do skills mean he's on his own against powerful opponents. Chris Bradford is an expert at keeping the tension high and this is page-turning, super-readable adventure.

Back on Weird Street

Author: Anne Fine Format: Paperback Release Date: 08/06/2018

The three stories in Anne Fine's new Weird Street collection are guaranteed to send delicious shivers down the spine, even on the hottest summer day. In classic Gothic tradition, the narrative is passed from one storyteller to another: three children, neighbours on Weir (aka Weird) Street share local ghost stories. Laila's tale has a happy ending, but is just uncanny enough to unsettle us; Asim's story is both scary and tragic, haunting in every sense; while Tom's is seriously creepy. Anne Fine is a superb writer and knows just how to turn the psychological screw. Highly readable, the stories will deliver their chills on each re-reading too. Perfect to thrill and chill, and particularly suitable for struggling, reluctant or dyslexic readers aged 8+

Blowback

Author: Chris Bradford Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/06/2017

Interest Age 8+ Reading Age 8 | As ever, Chris Bradford begins his story explosively, and then keeps the tension super-taut until the very last chapters. Despite his special bullet-catcher ability Troy is at the mercy of The Judge, one of the most ruthless and wicked villains you're likely to encounter, and his friend and colleague Kasia is in a coma: could this be the end for SPEAR's battalion of teenage super spies? Of course not! The fight back offers everything you would expect from this author and this series, nail-biting scenes and confrontations, and the triumph of teamwork and good over evil. It's super satisfying, and super readable. Particularly suitable for struggling, reluctant and dyslexic

readers aged 9+

All About Ella

Author: Sally Nicholls Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/03/2017

Sam is sick, and Ella is sick of Sam. Life seems to revolve around his hospital appointments, his medication and his need for peace and quiet. No one thinks about what Ella wants or needs, no one cares. They don't even know what day she was born on. In the end, Ella decides she doesn't care if Sam gets sicker, but when it happens, she finds she cares an awful lot. A charming and heartfelt exploration of family love and the challenges of being a younger sibling. High quality cream paper and a special easy to read font ensure a smooth read for all.

Blue Moon

Author: Jenny Oldfield Format: Paperback Release Date: 15/02/2016

Interest Age 8-12 Reading Age 8 This thrilling pony story has everything fans of the genre want: a wild, beautiful setting (the Rocky mountains) offering great gallops; a beautiful noble horse; a special bond linking horse to owner, that will be put to the test. When Anna's mum falls ill, her dad tells her they'll have to sell some of the horses to pay for treatment. Terrified he'll sell her own horse, Blue Moon, Anna smuggles him out and hides him in the mountains. It nearly ends in disaster when a frightened Blue Moon runs away. Full of drama, excitement and heartfelt emotion, this is a perfect story for girls who love horses. Beautiful illustrations by Gary Blythe make it even more special.
